CALL FOR EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

American Journal of Clinical Pathology (AJCP)

JOB DESCRIPTION:

- The Editor-in-Chief will have responsibility for the overall strategic direction of AJCP, one of the most read journals worldwide in both clinical and anatomic pathology, and the official pathology journal of ASCP and ACLPS.
- The Editor-in-Chief should have a national and international reputation, with publications in top echelon journals in the field and extensive contacts throughout the pathology community.
- The Editor-in-Chief will have responsibility for actuating the editorial direction of AJCP and proactively soliciting and presenting timely significant research findings relating to both anatomic and clinical pathology.
- This is a term-limited, contracted position. A monthly stipend is provided. The work of the Editor-in Chief is reviewed annually.
- The Editor-in-Chief will be expected to devote time daily to AJCP work, totaling approximately 10-15 hours per week.
- The Editor-in-Chief will be expected to travel to major pathology and laboratory medicine meetings to solicit content and authors.

QUALIFICATIONS & REQUIREMENTS:

- Have a medical degree with a specialization in pathology (boarding in both AP and CP is particularly useful), or a doctorate in a laboratory discipline (eg, clinical chemistry).
- A strong preference will be given to those with clinical experience, combined with research or academic experience.
- Must have experience working with scientific, peer-reviewed journals; as a peer reviewer, and as an editor or editorial board member.

APPLICATION CONTENT AND SUBMISSION:

- Submissions will only be accepted prior to 4 July 2018
- Please submit your full CV with “Personal Statement” that explains (in a summary paragraph for each point):
 - » Your motivation and interest in pursuing this position
 - » Your previous experience with peer-reviewed publications
- Please prepare and submit a “Vision Statement” that explains (in 2 pages):
 - » Your vision for the direction of the journal’s future content
 - » Your view of the journal’s content strengths and weaknesses currently
 - » Your understanding of the unmet needs for new types of journal content
 - » A summary of the editorial agenda you would pursue to enact the vision
- Please submit your full CV and statements to: AJCPsearch@ascp.org
