

ASCP is pleased to have a number of prestigious awards to recognize achievements of its members. The awards listed below are presented each year at the Annual Meeting.

To submit a recommendation, complete this form for each nomination you wish to make. Indicate the award for which you are submitting a nomination and tell the Awards Committee about the individual's qualifications and why you believe s/he deserves an award.

Name of Nominee: _____

Address of Nominee: _____

Recommended for consideration for the following award(s):

- Ward Burdick Award for Distinguished Service to Clinical Pathology
Fellow members who have made a significant contribution to pathology through sustained service to the profession and the ASCP are honored with this award. The award was established in 1929 to honor Ward Burdick, MD, one of the original founders of the ASCP.
- Philip Levine Award for Outstanding Research
Researchers who made a significant contribution to molecular pathology, immunohematology, and immunopathology are given this award. The award honors the late Philip Levine, MD, who made many distinguished contributions to clinical medicine, including determining the etiology of Rh hemolytic disease of newborns. Levine was director of Ortho Diagnostic Systems, Inc., co-sponsor of the award.
- Israel Davidsohn Award for Distinguished Service
Fellow members who have participated significantly in a variety of roles within the ASCP throughout their careers are honored this award.
- H.P. Smith Award for Distinguished Pathology Educator
Fellow members who have had distinguished careers in pathology and laboratory medicine embracing education, research and administration, as well as service to organized pathology are honored with this award. The award was initiated in 1974 and honors the former Fellow and ASCP president H.P. Smith, MD.

On a separate sheet of paper, explain why this individual should be recognized, such as:

1. Examples of outstanding performance in teaching through work in the classroom/clinic or through development of effective teaching methods and/or instructional materials.
2. Examples of whether personal and professional development of the student is a high priority of the nominee.
3. Demonstrated professionalism and service as a role model and mentor to his/her students and peers.

Additional letters of support from a pathologist, laboratory administrator or manager, immediate supervisor, student, graduate, faculty member, or peer are strongly encouraged, but not necessary. Please be sure all letters of support include the nominee's name and award.
