

ASCP Philip Levine Award for Outstanding Research

This annual award was established in 1969 and is bestowed annually to an individual whose contributions to immunohematology have been truly outstanding. This award honors Dr. Philip Levine, who had made many distinguished contributions to clinical medicine including determining the etiology of Rh hemolytic disease of newborn.

Previous Recipients of the ASCP Philip Levine Award for Outstanding Research

2008	Ishwarlal Jialal, MD, PhD, FASCP	1987	Edmond J. Yunis, MD
2007	Daniel M. Knowles, MD	1986	Kenneth O. Lloyd, PhD
2006	Lance A. Liotta, MD, PhD	1985	Donald M. Marcus, MD
2005	James Downing, MD	1984	Sen-itiroh Hakomori, MD, PhD
2004	Dennis Goldfinger, MD	1983	Georges Kohler, PhD and
2003	Robert L. Hunter, Jr., MD, PhD	1983	Cesar Milstein, PhD
2002	Clive R. Taylor, MD	1982	Elvin A. Kabat, PhD
2001	Janet Rowley, MD	1981	Wendell F. Rosse, MD
2000	Ernest Beutler, MD	1980	Ray L. Walford, MD
1999	Bert Vogelstein, MD	1979	E. Donnall Thomas, MD
1998	George Garratty, PhD, FRCPath	1978	Eloise R. Giblett, MD
1997	John B. Lowe, MD	1977	Paul I. Terasaki, PhD
1996	Sharad D. Deodhar, MD, PhD	1976	Fred H. Allen, Jr., MD
1995	Peter Issitt, PhD	1975	Richard E. Rosenfield, MD
1994	Ten Feizi, MD, FRCP, FRCPath	1974	Louis K. Diamond, MD
1993	W. Laurence Marsh, PhD, FRC Path, FI Biol	1973	Dr. P. L. Mollison
1992	George Stamatoyannopoulos, MD	1972	No Award
1991	Beruj Benacerraf, MD	1971	Israel Davidsohn, MD
1990	Walter T.J. Morgan, PhD and	1970	Ruth Sanger, PhD and
1990	Winifred M. Watkins, PhD	1970	R.R. Race, PhD
1989	Peter Nowell, MD	1969	Robin R. A. Coombs
1988	Hans J. Muller-Eberhard, MD		